

Isokon strikes again

Isokon software for probate estate administration has increased its lead as the primary supplier of probate software by the addition of TEN new customers in the last two months.

Isokon is now used by more than 40% of law firms who do probate and private client work.

Isokon is a complete tool-set that make the background accounting and compliance work easy so that you can devote more time for client contact and client care. Management of the work is now 'doddle'.

Those law firms who use both Isokon's accounting system and integrated case management are achieving a Gross Profit Margin in excess of 70%.

Isokon is more than just another case management for probate, and is without effective competitors.

To quote an Isokon customer: "Having looked at several software packages, it was clear that Isokon was by far the best software available as it provided the complete package of document production and an accounting system in a very user friendly and intuitive manner."

She added: "We have used Isokon for 9 years and it has revolutionised the way our probate department operates. We are now much more streamlined, efficient, competitive and profitable."

Another Isokon customer said: "I am extremely happy with Isokon and don't know how I accomplished the work properly before using Isokon. I can now undertake double the quantity of Probate work than was possible before adopting Isokon."

More than 2,000 individual users now use Isokon for highly complex estates, as well as for basic estates.
